

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S LABOUR MARKET BRIEFING

OCTOBER 2020

ONLINE WEBINAR:

THURS. SEPT. 24th from 3-4PM

From the complete uncertainty of the spring, as fall approaches, we're now developing a clearer understanding of how the economic downturn will progress. The 'BC Labour Market Briefing for October 2020', will examine what many are referring to as a 'K' shaped recovery with some industries thriving and growing and others continuing to struggle or collapse until COVID is resolved. During this webinar we'll look at the industries and occupations that will most be impacted by this transition.

This one-hour webinar, will address the following topics:

- An examination of the September Labour Force Survey; providing insights into the ongoing recovery of BC's labour market, trends since the pandemic began and growth of employment on a regional basis.
- Summary of the significant BC labour market stories, announcements, initiatives and research from September 2020.
- Review the latest projections for economic growth in British Columbia for the remainder of 2020, and transitioning into 2021, to identify industries with a strong outlook and the factors leaving others in jeopardy.
- Review of BC's construction sector, examining occupations in high-demand, strong educational pathways, industry trends, valuable resources and the impact of the pandemic on the labour force.
- Latest initiatives being undertaken by the Province of BC and the Government of Canada to grow the economy, minimize infections and engage the workforce.
- Summary of the very latest labour market research from local business, labour, financial, analytical, social policy and labour market research organizations.

All webinar participants will have access to the PowerPoint presentation used in this webinar.
